Khakas of Russia

Population: 73,000

The Khakas of Russia, from the Republic of Khakassia, are an Indigenous people in southeastern Siberia. Many make their livings through cattle and small-scale agriculture, as their ancestors did before them. Historically, the Khakas people practiced shamanism and were also influenced by Eastern Orthodoxy. Today, many identify as Christians, but they continue to practice shamanism.

Let's pray John 17:3 | And this is eternal life, that they know you, the only true God, and Jesus Christ whom you have sent.
